

A top secret research facility located deep in the Antarctic circle is mysteriously abandoned and the player is sent to investigate. Upon arriving, they discover the reason for the facilities location; it's built on top of a crashed alien spaceship. Their first order of business is returning power to the facility so they can gain access to some critical equipment. The GENERATOR is located nearby in a medium sized warehouse, but a power surge has ejected and scattered the three POWER CORES throughout the environment. The player must track them down among the rubble from the explosion and return them to the generator.